Mechanical Engineering Journal, Special Issue:
"Recent Progress in Research on Mechanics of Materials by Young Researchers"
Volume 7, Issue 4 (August, 2020)

1. Focus

In current fast-changing environment surrounding mechanical engineering and mechanics of materials, active research and fresh ideas brought by young researchers are highly expected. Thus, the 2019 M&M Symposium for Young Researchers is held on 7-9 August 2019 in Izunokuni, Shizuoka, Japan, by the Materials & Mechanics Division, and the special issue "Recent Progress in Research on Mechanics of Materials by Young Researchers" will be published in the Mechanical Engineering Journal. In this special issue, we invite the papers based on the contents presented in the above-mentioned symposium, covering a wide range of research topics on mechanics of materials such as solid mechanics, plasticity, fatigue, fracture, and experimental/numerical approaches for conventional and advanced materials.

2. Important Dates
